Actions for the current handling of SARS-CoV-2

Due to the increasing spread of the SARS-CoV-2 virus, the Eickhoff Group has developed a corona pandemic plan. The health of all employees and the protection of the group of companies have the highest priority.

On 6 March 2020, a crisis team consisting of members of the management, the works council, the company medical ambulance, the human resources department and other employees was convened.

The crisis team provides information and advice on a daily basis on the current developments of the pandemic and its impact on our company. In the event of acute changes, it can convene at short notice and make necessary decisions.

Employees have been instructed on hygiene and behaviour for their protection.

These instructions include, in particular, hygiene and precautionary behavior as well as behaviour in the event of a suspected infection and are aimed at minimising the risk of infection. Employees are instructed to report suspected cases of infection with the virus from their personal environment immediately to the crisis management team, which will then determine the further course of action.
